

Nursing home, Texas Flat bills await Mabus' signature

BY DENA BISNETTE

Two bills from the Mississippi House of Representatives which will affect Hancock County have gone to Governor Ray Mabus for final approval.

According to State Representative J.C. Compretta, once Mabus signs them, one of the bills will provide funds for the reconstruction of Texas Flat Road and the other will provide a certificate of need for a 60-bed skilled nursing facility.

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors has been attempting to get funding for Texas Flat Road for a decade. Last year, an Economic Development Highway Act provided $3 million for the project, which was expected to cost $4.4 million.

Compretta introduced House Bill 3042 in order to obtain more money for the project after the board failed last year to get a Community Development Block Grant for the remaining $1.4 million.

The bill provides $4.2 million for the project, with the possibility of expanding the amount to $5 million if the cost is higher than the original estimate, Compretta stated Wednesday after having talked with Department of Economic Development officials earlier this week.

However, Compretta said the supervisors are planning to make up the cost difference between the $4.2 million and the $4.4 million if more money can not be obtained through the Economic Development Highway Act.

The bill requires that the road be constructed according to state highway specifications, which mandate a load-bearing capacity of 80,000 pounds.

The nursing home bill, needed because a moratorium on granting certificates of need without legislative action has been enforced over the past several years, will provide for a proposed expansion of an existing intermediate facility in the old Hancock General Hospital building on Dunbar Avenue.

Southern Health Enterprises, Inc., had asked for the certificate of need when it bought the building in 1988.

However, the certificate was not obtained during the 1989 legislative session after language in a bill that passed was deleted in a joint committee, resulting in omission of the certificate for the local facility and alteration in the type of certificate granted for a Harrison County project.

Compretta requested an investigation of how the change occurred, stating that it was not permissible under legislative procedure. That investigation is continuing.

"This will be good for the local economy," he stated after learning that the bill had passed both houses this year and had gone to the governor. "Not only will there be employment from the resulting construction, but there will also be permanent employment."

"There is also a severe shortage of nursing home beds here. The need for beds in our region is greater than in any other region in the state," Compretta added.

Bay St. Louis police chief Robert Lee is in stable condition in Memorial Hospital at Gulfport after admitting himself late Friday night for testing.

Lee said he drove to the hospital after feeling chest pains and having difficulty breathing. "Everything's feeling better now," he said, "but I was in ICU for three days."

"The doctors are still running tests. They haven't told me anything yet."

"I just want to find out what's wrong and get a cure for it. I want to get out of here."

Lottery goes to court

BY DENA BISNETTE

The controversy over whether Mississippians can vote on a lottery may be dead in the State Legislature, but it has gone to court.

According to State Representative J.P. Compretta, the House of Representatives passed a bill allowing bingo, but it included a provision for repeal of Section 98 of the Mississippi Constitution, which prohibits lotteries.

A major part of the controversy during this year's legislative session has been over whether or not bingo is a form of lottery. State Attorney General Mike Moore has closed down non-profit bingo operations throughout the state, citing the prohibition on lotteries as his authority.

Bingo for profit and any purpose other than charitable fundraising is prohibited under a separate statute.

State Senator Victor Frankiewicz Jr. said he does not expect the bingo bill to pass in the State Senate as long as the provision for repeal of Section 98 is included. Also, there is not enough time to change the bill because the session ends this week.

Two representatives from the eastern end of the Mississippi Coast, Oliver Diaz and Ray Vecchio, have tackled the matter from an alternate position, presenting a petition for an initiative referendum to the Secretary of State at about noon today, Frankiewicz said.

The petition was turned down on the basis of a 1922 Supreme Court decision, which did away with the initiative referendum in Mississippi. A referendum now must be initiated through legislative action and petitions are not effective.

Frankiewicz said Moore immediately filed suit in Hinds County Circuit Court in an attempt to get a decision on the lottery issue.

The matter is expected to be expedited. Compretta said the Circuit Court is obligated by law to rule against such a referendum and hopes the case can be appealed to the Mississippi Supreme Court as early as next week.

Living life the old way: pair travels by wagon

BY TRACI BONNEY

They're an unusual group, to say the least — Jack and Glenda Anderson, Sugar, Blue, Tent Peg, Schooner, Jughead Smith and Shenanigan.

This mixed crew — two people, two ponies, three dogs and a goat — is making its way from Konawa, Okla., to Panama City, Fla., by covered wagon. So far, the group has traveled in four states and has spent most of its time in Mississippi, including a couple of days in Kiln.

The Andersons, 45 and 31 and married five years, had been living a "primitive" lifestyle for a couple of years — using very few items that were in existence after the year 1850 — when they set out Sept. 17, 1989, on a three-year trek across the United States.

Why? Jack Anderson said, "I suppose it's more the challenge of it than anything else."

Jack also mentioned the intention of writing a book about their experiences after the trip is over.

The Andersons log an average of 20 miles' travel in a day. Glenda said, "We've gone 27, 28 miles one day and a mile and a half the next."

Jack added, "And some days we haven't moved at all."

The couple camps out each night wherever they can find a

Improper grade of sand to change beach plans

BY DENA BISNETTE

Because the proper grade of sand for replenishing Hancock County's beaches has not been found, development plans may be modified.

According to John Scafield Jr., chairman of the Hancock County Beach Committee, the county may now consider reconstructing the beach in only four places rather than the entire seven miles from the Washington Street area to Bayou Cadet.

However, those four spots are already the most-used sections of beach and are also the four targeted as most suitable for recreational development in a resident survey.

The areas include Washington Street, Coleman Avenue, Buccaneer State Park and Clermont Harbor, Scafield said.

Business stickers help police in emergency, crime prevention

BY TRACI BONNEY

Officers Don Oco and Jim Clark of the Bay St. Louis Police Department are "sticking it" to businesses this week.

The officers are canvassing the business community, placing on doors and windows special stickers that will aid the police department in reporting crimes and other activities.

The stickers, a result of the Business Against Crime Program, state that in the event of an emergency the persons involved should call 911 or the police department.

The stickers also have a unit code number. This number will allow a police officer to report his location without actually having to broadcast it over the police radio.

Oco said the stickers should help to deter both would-be perpetrators and would-be spectators. Those who monitor police channels as a hobby will no longer hear the location of a possible crime or emergency; instead, they will hear only the unit code number.

The program to implement the stickers started a month ago, Oco said.

"We started on the north side of the highway (Hwy. 90) in Bay St. Louis Monday," he said. "We hope to be finished with both sides of the highway by Friday."

"While we are doing this, we're also updating our emergency notification sheets."

Hancock Industries to host open house at new location

Hancock Industries, a work activity program for adults with developmental disabilities, will host an open house and formal opening of its new location in Port Bienville Industrial Park, Pearlinton, on Friday, March 30.

A service of Gulf Coast Mental Health Center, Hancock

Industries occupies a new, 10,000-square-foot building designed and built for its use by the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission.

The building project, initiated by the late Jimmy DeBlanc while serving as executive director of the Port and Harbor Commission, has been supported and carried out by his successor, Harold ("Buz") Olsen, and members of the commission.

In four moves over its ten-year history, Hancock Industries has expanded progressively in both space and activities. Operating initially in 1979 from a small, 2,000-square-foot building on Hwy. 90 in Bay St. Louis, one intermediate move to downtown Bay St. Louis doubled the floor space.

For the past several years, the program has occupied an older, 6,000-foot facility in the Industrial Park.

Beginning with projects in the nature of collecting aluminum cans and selling peanuts, packaging for major corporations is the leading activity today, along with other prime manufacturing and sub-contracts with area businesses.

Building and marketing of crabtraps has been an ongoing enterprise from the start.

The public is invited to attend Friday's open house between 1 and 4 p.m. A brief program is scheduled for 1:30.

A 1968 graduate of the University of Southern Mississippi with a bachelor of science degree in business administration and personnel management, Travis was formerly a sales manager and production manager with the Poycune-based St. Regis Paper Company from 1968 to 1976.

In 1976, Travis joined Quick & Grice, Inc., a home-owned and family-operated business that originated in 1936. A home-building center and ACE Hardware affiliate, Quick & Grice, Inc. specializes in building material and propane gas and services Pearl River and

Big B posts record sales

Big B Inc. announced record sales for the fiscal year and quarter ended Feb. 3, 1990. Sales for the year rose to $417,717,000 up 54 percent, while fourth quarter sales rose 59.9 percent to $132,667,000.

Earnings for the year declined to $3,715,000 from $7,216,000 in the prior year and declined to $820,000 from $2,269,000 for the fourth quarter.

The prior year income included a $503,000 ($.06 per share) credit for the cumulative effect of the change in the method of accounting for income taxes.

The declines resulted primarily from financing costs and other expenses relating to Big B's acquisition of 85 drug stores during the year and the subsequent costs associated with their conversion to the Big B format.

Pre-tax operating income (before interest, depreciation and gain on sale of property) rose 31.4 percent for the year and 22.8 percent for the fourth quarter.

The company's board of directors as an expression of confidence in the future outlook for Big B declared a $.04 per share dividend payable April 20, 1990, to shareholders of record on April 6, 1990.

During the fourth quarter the company opened stores in Milledgeville and Mapleton, Ga., and Murfreesboro, Tenn. Subsequent to year end stores were opened in Smyrna, Ga.; Birmingham, Ala.; and the company's 300th store in Stone Mountain, Ga.

Big B Inc. operates stores in Alabama (143), Florida (20), Georgia (113), Mississippi (7) and Tennessee (17).

three or four of these places. It would enhance the opportunity to fully develop the beach areas we have, because we could put more money into each pocket beach," he stated.

The possibility of pocket beaches is being considered in the wake of reports on sand borings, which were presented at a committee meeting Monday afternoon.

Scafide said Lou Capazoli, a consultant analyzing the borings for the committee and Brown and Mitchell, an engineering firm assisting the committee with preliminary plans for the project, has reported that the sand found in the Mississippi Sound is not of a proper grade for beach reconstruction and replenishment.

The sand deposits near Washington Street as well as between Waveland and Bayou Cadet are of too fine a grade. Although some beaches in Florida have used this type of sand, in this area use of it would cause problems with excessive blowing, erosion and drainage interference, Scafide stated.

Original estimates of $2 to $2.50 have changed to as much as $5 if sand must be hauled in from an upland site, but the committee is still considering two upland sources, the Ladner Pit in Harrison County and Reinike's Pit in Waveland.

About 600,000 to 700,000 cubic yards are needed for pocket beaches, but for the seven-mile beach, about 100,000 to 500,000 would be needed, according to figures presented Monday.

A finer sand would also increase maintenance costs by shortening the time needed between replenishments.

Jeff Taylor of South Mississippi Planning and Development District, who has been assisting the county with its beach project since an advisory committee was formed and composed a Sand Beach Master Plan several years ago, said the change in plans may continue to consolidate a change in attitude toward beach maintenance as well.

"We will have to manage the beach more intently than ever before, knowing that our source of sand is limited," he stated.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

When you retire Saturday night, you need to remember to advance your clock one hour for Daylight Saving Time.

There are some folks, like myself, and now even some countries, who would like Daylight Saving Time abolished.

Personally I would prefer more time in the evenings of winter instead of summer.

In previous years I recall seeing some folks coming to church just as the services were over, because they forgot to move their clocks ahead for the time change.

So, this is just a reminder.

I have filled out my census report and returned it by mail.

Like most folks, I received a short form to prepare for the census.

It is very important for everyone to be counted in this census.

The Bureau of Census tells us the importance of a census and listed below is why it is important for everyone to be counted:

- Apportionment of U.S. House of Representatives
- Redistricting of state and local election districts
- Allocating billions of dollars in federal and state program funds to county and city governments
- Government and private sector planning, program management, and facility site location
- Monitoring social and economic trends and change

Other examples of how census data is used include: school lunch programs, day care centers, senior citizen centers, jobs, and planning for business and government.

So, please be sure to complete your census form.

Do not forget the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's Morning Edition Coffee on Friday at 7:30 a.m., Wheel-Inn Restaurant, Highway 90, Bay St. Louis.

Dianne Hunt of the Bureau of Marine Resources is the featured speaker.

Dianne will talk about efforts underway to curb marine debris and about the upcoming Beach Reach, scheduled for April 7.

The chamber will also announce the recipient of the first Community Pride Award. The award will be given quarterly to a business that has exemplified community service involvement, economic development and civic beautification.

The Morning Edition this month is sponsored by the Peoples Bank.

I hope to see you at the Morning Edition.

The great education reformation in Miss.

A writer who was commenting on the great religious reformation of the 1500s said it is important that we not lose sight of the leaders by whose personal qualities the reformation was produced and molded.

If a reformation is to take place, he suggested, there must be leaders who have caught a vision of great truth, who have realized the value of reformation, and who can interpret those values to their fellow men.

It may be that Mississippi, in the 1990s, is on the threshold of a great education reformation. The people of Mississippi are ready for reformation.

Business understands and supports reformation.

The Governor is attempting to lead us to reformation.

The Legislature is struggling to fund education reformation. And, Mississippi's children need the reformation.

As we continue the struggle, it will be helpful for all Mississippians to remember the words of the writer:

If a reformation is to take place, there must be leaders who have caught a vision of truth, who realize the value of reformation, and who can interpret those values to their fellow men.

Today, more than ever, Mississippi needs visionary leaders for its great education reformation.

REPORT FROM THE SENATE

by Sen. Vic Franckiewicz Jr.

Several issues still to be addressed by Legislature

We are trying again to revive bingo in Mississippi. The Senate passed a resolution to put bingo to a vote of the people as a "stand alone" issue from the lottery.

Many of us feel that the controversy over the lottery should not hold up the many fine community organizations which rely on bingo to support their work.

As of this writing, the House of Representatives added the lottery to the bingo resolution. The anti-lottery forces in the Senate are likely to oppose the bill in this form.

While I support voting on the lottery, it should be a separate issue from bingo. Hopefully, we will resolve this mess in the last week of the session.

In other business, the major debate of the next to last week of the session centered around funding state government, providing a pay increase for state employees, and prohibiting road hunting.

Because our revenue has not been coming in as expected, we are forced to cut most 1991 budgets below 1990 levels. Attempts to bring forth a number of revenue-producing measures for consideration failed in the Senate this week; many senators felt that the House and the Governor would not go along with taxes and, unfortunately, the Senate was not willing to reconsider a lottery.

A pay raise for state employees has been a priority of most legislators since last year. The compromise plan, approved by both houses, will grant a raise to all employees beginning Oct. 1 of this year.

Each employee will receive either $125 a month, five percent of his or her base salary, or a salary realignment, whichever is greater. (Realignment is a formula used to adjust state salaries to bring them in line with those for comparable jobs in the private sector.)

This substantial raise is designed to help employees at all levels of the pay scale. We wanted to institute the raise in July, but there simply isn't enough money to do that.

At the time of this writing, a compromise had not been reached on the road hunting bill which was hotly debated during the week. The first compromise attempt brought to us for consideration was attacked from all fronts.

The bill, as presented, would have defined road hunting as a person in possession of a loaded firearm on a public street, road, highway or railroad in an area where game is deemed to be present.

Some felt this was a gun control bill because it applied all year long, rather than just in hunting season, as the Senate had earlier agreed on.

Some felt it would be a burden to ranchers who carry guns to protect their cattle from coyotes. Others felt that it would be too easy for a hunter to see a game warden approaching, quickly unload his gun, placing the ammunition in his pocket, so that he would not be deemed hunting. The bill was returned to the conference committee for more work.

While most of the major issues such as education reform, drug abuse, and hazardous waste management still remain on the table, the Governor has already signed into law 175 bills.

Proposed amendments to the Mississippi Constitution do not require the Governor's approval—they are put on the ballot for adoption or rejection by the people. The amendments which will be voted on in the November 1990 general election include:

*repeal the section establishing the state boundaries which are recorded incorrectly in the Constitution;

*repeal the section providing for Confederate pensions. No living persons remain to receive such pensions;

*remove the section which lets the Legislature elect U.S. Senators and appoint presidential electors;

*Remove the section which requires the Governor to verify the balance of the Treasury and to inspect the state vaults to see the cash with his own eyes;

*allow legislative bills to be read by title rather than in full three times during the session. Each member would retain the right to have any bill read in its entirety.

You may contact me during these last few days of the 1990 Session at 359-3770 or by writing to the Mississippi State Senate, P.O. Box 1018, Jackson, MS 39215.

Appropriations for state government agencies frustrate their leaders

With the 1990 Legislature nearing an end last week, lawmakers were once again parceling out funds for state government agencies with the same old creaky single-shot appropriation machinery they've used since 1890.

And once again, frustrations were running high as fiscal leaders tried to get a handle on where the state budget stood after 260 separate spending bills have been flying from one house to the other for weeks.

Dozens of the bills were caught in a tug-of-war between the House Appropriations Committee and the Senate Appropriations Committee over how much will be allocated to each agency, and how much will be cut because of the money shortage.

More than 150 of appropriations measures wound up in six-member conference committees—three members from the House and three from the Senate—who do their work in secret.

Then with hardly any time left in the session for the vast majority of the other members to critically review the conferees' decisions, the spending bills are rolled out on the floor to be acted on.

Added to that was the near-panic of major state agency heads, such as the university and junior college presidents, nervously waiting around while their appropriations were on the cutting table behind closed doors.

"It is a very inexact process," said an almost-exhausted Rep. Charlie Capps of Cleveland, the chairman of the House Appropriations Committee last weekend. "There's got to be a better way to do it."

Capps has tried for several years without success to generate interest to do away with the archaic single-shot appropriation system and go to an omnibus budget bill or a handful of spending bills such as most states use.

One of the main arguments for a single budget bill is that it provides a vehicle to put the entire budget into perspective and gives lawmakers a better chance to set spending priorities. Also it would be much less time-consuming and would let one house work on other matters while the other was working on the budget bill.

An old provision in the 1890 Constitution calls for separate appropriation bills except for the executive, judicial and legislative departments, public schools and the interest on state bonds. Over the years, Mississippi legislative fiscal leaders have interpreted this to mean that every appropriation be done by a separate bill.

Capps is of the opinion that an omnibus budget bill system could be installed without a constitutional amendment. Significantly, a proposed constitutional amendment authorizing a single bill to appropriate funds for state departments was rejected by the House Constitution Committee this session.

In a move toward improving the budgeting process, the 1986 Legislature had passed a law requiring implementation of "program-based" budgeting by FY 89. The measure required agencies to identify each of its programs, the costs of each program and the objectives and anticipated activities of each program.

But the Legislature has proceeded to ignore the program-based budgeting formula in the appropriations bills it passes and sends to the governor for his action.

All the appropriations bills usually contain are the amounts allotted in general terms for salaries and fringe benefits, contractual services, commodities and capital outlay.

Gov. Ray Mabus and his fiscal advisors contend that the failure of the Legislature to send him appropriations bills with programs of each department or agency set out as separate items makes his item veto power under the constitution virtually worthless.

Mabus is unhappy that this deprives him of a mechanism for trimming the state budget by vetoing obsolete programs for which state agencies are still getting funding and converting to other purposes.

But Capps says the Legislature has tried to give agencies some flexibility in managing their programs.

Without that flexibility, he maintains, such institutions as the University Medical Center and Hospital would not have been able to survive during the tight budget years.

IN CONGRESS

By Rep. Gene Taylor

Volunteerism aimed at crime

We are a nation of volunteers. And not since World War II or perhaps the founding of the Peace Corps has any president or any Congress paid so much attention to volunteerism than President George Bush and the 101st Congress.

It was Bush who first likened America's varied volunteer organizations "to a brilliant diversity spread like stars, like a thousand points of light in a broad and peaceful sky." And it has been the Congress' intent to keep the heavens beaming.

Democrat and Republican legislators alike have signed bills to encourage volunteerism and public service by offering generous post-service education or housing benefits. President Bush himself offered a limited "national service" proposal.

But perhaps the most interesting of all of the legislation is the "Police Corps Act," introduced June 29, 1989 in Congress.

The Police Corps Act would establish an "Office of the Police Corps" within the U.S. Justice Department for the purpose of attracting more young men and women to serve their country in the field of law enforcement.

At a time of military cutbacks, the Police Corps would be a good alternative way for young people to serve their country and reap some educational and financial benefits.

In some instances, the program would repay the educational loans of State Police Corps program participants up to $40,000 and reimburse them for their federal law enforcement training and for four years of state or local police force service.

I don't need to remind you of what society stands to gain. After all, it's state and local lawmen who are forced to serve on the front lines of the anti-drug and anti-crime battles.

So where the Police Corps is one way to encourage young people to give something back to society, I believe it will also help those lawmen who are already dedicated to fighting rising crime rates and the horrible drug problem.

I think it is a good approach to helping solve this nation's problems. We are helping our young people and encouraging them to help society in return.

Nautical styles get nod from Coast retailers

BY TRACI BONNEY

Almost anything goes this spring in women's fashions, with looks ranging from ethnic to classic and colors including everything from the palest pinks to pull-out-the-sunglasses brights.

Jane Ann Fahey of the Princess Shoppe said the looks in sportswear this year are free and easy, with city shorts making a strong showing in both casual and dressy images.

Paired with sandals or socks and tennis shoes, these updated versions of walking shorts make the perfect outfit for a day at the beach or the park.

Dressed up with colored hose and flat pumps, city shorts become the thing to wear for a date or a night on the town.

Another sportswear look that's hot for this spring, Fahey said, is the divided skirt, a cross between the skirt and pants. The divided skirt, like city shorts, is favored for its versatility.

Tops to accompany city shorts and divided skirts include knit tops, dressy t-shirts and feminine tuck-in blouses in a variety of colors and styles.

"Two of the strongest looks this season are the nautical and ethnic looks," Fahey said. Nautical looks, perennial favorites, include sportswear, two-piece suits and dresses with piping, braid trim, gold buttons and nautical motif appliques. Colors for nautical looks are the classic combinations: navy and white; red, white and blue; red and white; black and white.

Ethnic looks include African and Southwestern ensembles, in soft, cool, comfortable fabrics and colors ranging from earth tones to natural shades like tan and bone, from pastels to brights like turquoise.

Tie-dyed looks are strong again this year, as are hand-crafted looks. Hothouse floral prints, with bright but natural colors in large and small prints, also are favorites.

Neons continue to show up in this spring's sportswear fashions — bright solids and sassy combinations of lime green, citrus orange and hot pink.

Peplums continue to be a popular touch in dresses and skirts, while the styles for skirts include both the shorter, slim silhouettes and the longer, full ones. Some dresses are very fitted at the waist this year, but the less fitted drop-waist dress still is popular, too.

In special occasion dresses, airy chiffons, crisp linens and comfortable imported cottons are popular. Colors for these fancier garments range from very soft pastels like blush pink to very vivid brights like hot pink.

"For accessories, hats are very strong," Fahey said. "And they're not just for looks any more. They're for protection as well, since there's more concern now for saving the skin from the damaging effects of too much sun."

"Gloves are always a good finishing touch, and in jewelry, the looks that are strong are the ethnic, nautical and classic pieces."

Mary Murphy, of Mary Murphy's Exceptional Woman's Wear in Waveland, said halter dresses, sandwashed silk, nautical looks and well-bred classic looks are the hot sellers in her shop.

"When I go to market, I look for things that are distinctively different, things that are for the Coast," Murphy said.

Short sleeve sweaters with such motifs as sailboats are popular in the local area this season, as are sandwashed silks in a variety of colors.

Sandwashed silks are produced in much the same fashion as are stonewashed jeans. The resulting fabric has a soft sheen and mellow color.

Murphy said a variety of garments are available in sandwashed silk: shirts, surplice and tunic tops, shorts, elastic waist pants and long, straight skirts.

Linens and brightly colored cotton knits also are favored for early spring, Murphy said.

"In the market, you see a lot of brights in early spring. In May, you start to see a paler color palette," she added.

Men's fashions seem to be just as varied as those for women this year, with looks from past seasons remaining strong in all categories, said Pam Parker of Anthony's.

"Men's clothing does not change as drastically as women's clothing does," she said. "Styles fade out and come back, but they take longer to do it than with women's clothing."

In casual wear, shorts and t-shirts remain popular with the younger crowd, while casual slacks and short-sleeve shirts are the choice for the more mature man.

Popular fabrics are all-cotton and polyester/cotton blends, while patterns range from solids to stripes, from plaids to prints of various sorts — paisleys, florals, tropical and others.

In suits, solids in navy and charcoal gray are still strong, as are pinstripes and subtle glen plaids in muted colors. Double-breasted suits still enjoy some popularity as well.

Ties offer a wide variety of colors, fabrics, widths and patterns, from paisley to madras, from silk to leather to cotton knit.

Vertical lines have slimming effect

If losing weight and looking thinner are personal goals, then learn to look for clothes with vertical lines.

Vertical lines can be formed by seam lines and detail features. Look for long slenderizing seams, narrow panels and gores, long narrow sleeves, long pointed collars, V-necklines and long narrow vest or sweater openings.

For a slenderizing look, choose striped fabrics. Vertical stripes, if closely spaced, will move the viewer's eye in an upward and downward direction creating an illusion of slenderness.

Lines can be positioned to lead the viewer's eye to a desirable focal point, thereby detracting attention from a portion of the figure that needs to be camouflaged.

Unbalanced lines, diagonal lines and gracefully curved lines often are used to create the illusion of a well-proportioned figure.

In summary, keep the viewer's eye moving. Select clothes that will cause the viewer's eye to move in a vertical direction.

End of Season Clothing Storage

As the end of the winter season approaches, it's time to begin thinking about putting up cold weather clothes. Proper care and storage of winter woollens will extend the wear life of garments.

The first step to proper storage is cleaning. Do not store any garments that have not been laundered or dry cleaned.

Even if they do not appear dirty or were worn only one time, they should be cleaned before storage. Perspiration, body oils, dirt and food stains can lead to insect damage, permanent staining and fabric degradation.

Secondly, consider how the garments are stored. Knit garments, such as sweaters, should be folded and placed into a drawer, chest, box or folded over a hanger to avoid stretching.

Put coats on large padded coat hangers and in a closet that allows them to hang freely. Place other garments on hangers or fold neatly, depending on the type and amount of storage space available.

Do not store clothes in dark damp places. This will cause fabrics to mildew. Extremely hot places, such as attics, are also not recommended places for storage.

Remove plastic bags from the dry cleaners before storage. These bags can cause permanent yellowing of some fabrics. However, special moth protection plastic bags purchased from a drycleaner are designed for seasonal storage.

In Mississippi no one is exempt from possible insect damage when it comes to clothing and textiles products. Moths, ants, beetles and crickets will eat holes in fabrics, especially those containing natural fibers.

Use moth cakes, crystals and balls according to directions to help prevent damage. Cleanliness is also important. Vacuum and wipe out closets and drawer thoroughly before storage.

If insects are observed or damage has occurred in the past, it may be necessary to treat storage areas chemically.

The last step involves periodic checking and inspection of stored clothing. If problems are occurring, they can be remedied before it is too late.

Wagon

patch of ground for Shenanigan and the horses to graze. On Saturdays, they look for a church that will let them stay a couple of days.

They don't look for a particular denomination when they choose a church. "We've been to church with Baptists, Pentecostals, Mormons. We're basically nondenominational," Jack said.

"I figure the central message is essentially the same. The only basis by which we judge is whether or not the people show each other love."

While in Kula they stayed at Shifalo Baptist Church on Hwy. 603.

Jack said they look for a church on Saturday not only so they can attend services the next day, but also because many churches have kitchen and shower facilities.

"We can use a creek or a stream in warmer weather,"

Jack said, "but in colder weather a shower in an indoor setting is more comfortable and healthier."

Churches also serve as a haven for the couple, who lack privacy because of the uniqueness of their living arrangements. "We've had people come up and look in the back of the wagon while we're in bed," Jack said. "They open the flap, poke their head in and ask, 'How are y'all doing in there?'"

Glenda added, "The churches give us a chance to hide away for a while."

However, the Andersons don't consider themselves social dropouts. "We have more dealings with the public now than we ever did when we were running our janitorial service in Tulsa," Jack said.

"We've received just about every form of hospitality you can conceive of."

"We never tell anyone to go away," Glenda said. "How can you tell anyone who is so friendly to go away?"

The Andersons have been the recipients of gifts, food and even food for their animals. Several farmers have given them bales of hay for the horses.

Jack said the experience has been gratifying. "The number of friendly people we've met is amazing. We figured it would be about a 50-50 split when we started out, but it's been about 99 to one so far. For every rude person we've met, there have been 99 friendly ones."

"The insight alone into people we've gained has made the trip worthwhile."

In addition to seeing the country, the couple is making a statement about ecology with this trip.

"You can live without doing damage to the environment," Jack said.

To help bring that point home

In Mississippi, the Andersons recently drove their wagon around the state capitol in a demonstration in Jackson protesting the efforts of Waste Management, Inc., to place a medical waste incinerator in Franklin County.

While their lifestyle might seem easy, even idyllic, Jack said it is not for "lazy people."

"Now, this lifestyle isn't for everyone," Glenda added, "but we've found that if you do want to do it, you have more quality in your life."

"If you want to do this, you change your perspective and your attitude. Once you've done that, the rest is easy."

Of course, there are some adjustments to make. The Andersons carry no ice chest with them, so their food is either dried or canned for the most part.

Laundry is taken care of either in primitive fashion — washboard, tub and lye soap — or through the hospitality of people the couple meets.

Jack and Glenda agreed that their worst problem is heavy traffic. Although the rear of their wagon sports two flags and a slow-moving vehicle sign, they worry that someone may not see them until it's too late.

"I don't look back," Jack said. "I'm afraid to see what might be coming up behind me."

"Most of the time, though, when truckers pass us, we see them holding up their microphones to let us know they're calling other truckers.

"Most of the people on the road contend with us very well."

The couple has no insurance of any sort and no bank account. Their main source of income is from Jack's artwork. "I'm a sidewalk artist," he said. "We also do craftwork and give pony and wagon rides if we happen to run across a festival."

When the Andersons reach Florida, Jack said, they intend to set up a semi-permanent camp for a month or so, before heading west across the U.S.

After that, they are planning a bike tour across Europe and a tour of Australia.

Jack said, "We just decided to quit rat-racing, and to try and pack as much into life as we can."

President Woodrow Wilson visited here during the winter of 1913-14 when he lived in the Dixie White House in Pass Christian. Many first editions are found here along with an interesting scrapbook from Pass Christian Garden Club.

Trinity Episcopal Church—West Beach and Church Street, 11 a.m.-4 p.m. Trinity was organized in 1848 and the church built in 1849. This building was swept away during Hurricane Camille. The new structure, duplicating the 1849 original, was completed in 1971. The need to point on the kneelers of the communion rail was done by a group of New Orleans ladies and given in memory of those who lost their lives in Hurricane Camille.

Live Oak Cemetery—North of Trinity Episcopal Church on St. Louis Street. Land was donated in 1851 to Trinity Church and called Live Oak Cemetery. Frances Parke Lewis Butler's (great-granddaughter of Martha Washington and grandniece of George Washington) tomb is here.

Home of Mrs. Betsy Richards—208 West Beach 11 a.m.-2 p.m. The house, a Louisiana style cottage, was built by Dr. A. R. Robertson, first physician of Pass Christian, about 1890. Large French doors and windows open onto a porch across the front. Mrs. Richards, being an interior decorator herself, completely re-did the house when she bought it, adding color and charm to the old cottage. An ultra modern kitchen was added.

Buffet Luncheon will be served at the Pass Christian Yacht Club, 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. for $6.50. Reservations are not required.

The Harbor Shop—115 East Scenic Drive 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. A unique non-profit organization which operates a retail shop. All articles are sold on consignment and all profits are used for civic contributions. The shop was founded by Mrs. Donna Baird in 1955 with original capital of $30 and is staffed by volunteers.

Home of Mr. and Mrs. Norton England—Bush Road, DeLisle. The house was built about 60 years ago by a member of the Busch (beer) family as a winter home on Baytown DeLisle. In 1959 Mr. N. E. England bought the property and uses it as a second home. Much renovating has been done on the cottage, adding two guest houses for his children. A large modern pool with a rustic poolhouse sits on five acres of land filled with azalea bushes and has a beautiful vista of the river and Bay.

Home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Parker, DeLisle. 2 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. This is the earliest known working Spanish land grant given to John B. Saucier in 1712. The home is a New England type cottage with four board verandas encasing the house, and 14-foot ceilings. In 1848 Mark Twain was a visitor here. Mr. Parker purchased the home in 1932. His father, the former Governor of Louisiana, John M. Parker, had a large impact on Pass Christian and lots of his memos will be found here. There is a 500-year-old oak, a member of the Living Oak Society, standing in the front yard. Tea will be served.

Senior Citizens Center—W. Second Street. This modern building was rebuilt in 1987 after housing the police and fire departments for many, many years. All senior citizens are invited to participate in the various activities offered—sewing, crocheting, ceramics, all crafts, china painting and other arts. There is a craft shop where the seniors may sell their crafts.

KILLING TIME

By Traci Bonney

Stickers and license plates make good highway reading

I'm an avid reader. I'll read just about anything. I prefer my Bible or a related book, but I have been known to pick up a good fiction book or the newspaper.

However, it's a mite difficult to read anything when you're traveling down the highway at 50 miles an hour — I know; I tried it one time.

So some clever individuals have solved the problem of reading materials for those of us who must read. They (whoever they may be) came up with the idea of putting witty, profound or sometimes inane sayings on pieces of adhesive material and placing these adhesive strips on the rear ends of automobiles.

You got it — bumper stickers. First, I have a question for those whose cars sport political bumper stickers — why? Why do you put on your car a sticker whose value lasts only as long as the campaign it advertises?

I don't know; perhaps political stickers do have some value. I once saw an old car with a multitude of political stickers plastered on it. When I naively commented that the owner of the vehicle must really endorse the candidate named, a friend of mine pointed out the stickers were placed on the rear fender and probably covered a large rust spot.

My next question is for those with obscene stickers on their cars. Would you say that in front of a priest, pastor or parent? If not, then why do you proclaim it before all the world on your car?

Okay, let me kick the soapbox back under my desk. I'm finished scolding.

At one time, I didn't like bumper stickers. I thought they were useless and cluttered the car. Now, though, I think they're kind of neat and fun. Of course, this may have something to do with the fact that I now have my own car and can clutter it up any way I please.

There are several types of stickers other than political ones. There are the funny ones, Christian ones, school ones, promotional ones, and at least a dozen other types.

Let's start with the funny ones. You've seen them; some amuse, others may offend.

Of course, we all have seen, "Don't laugh; it's paid for." Well, I saw a variation on that one day that I thought was even more appropriate. It said, "Don't laugh; it runs."

Then there's, "I may be slow, but I'm ahead of you"; "If you don't like the way I drive, stay off the sidewalk"; and others claiming that the driver of the vehicle will do nasty things in your general direction if you bother him.

Other funny ones include a wide range of stickers: the ones with witty sayings, the "I brake for..." stickers, the "bandage" stickers (usually with the word "ouch" printed on them) that are made to go over small dents and dings, and many others.

My favorite "I brake for..." sticker is one I never saw but did hear about, one that said, "I don't brake."

If you want a sampling of Christian bumper stickers, either go to the nearest Christian bookstore or read my car. I started with one that says, "Get the Spirit." The sticker is made of prism tape, which looks really interesting when a headlight or parking lot light shines on it.

For a while, that was my only sticker. I worried that people might wonder what kind of spirit it meant. It has a dove on it, but still....

So I bought two more stickers. One says, "Jesus is Lord." The other is a warning of sorts. I'm not going to tell you what it says; just look for a gray 1987 Cavalier with three stickers on it the next time you're driving around. I think you'll be amused.

School stickers and promotional ones are really very similar. School stickers either promote the school or the honor roll student enrolled in the school, while promotional ones tell folks to go to this festival, try that product or go to this car dealership.

Of course, everyone has seen at least one message sticker in his or her lifetime. You know, the ones that tell the driver's opinion about gun control, abortion, drugs or whatever.

Bumper stickers aren't the only reading material on the road these days. There are also personalized license plates, not to be confused with fake plates like the "You've got a friend in Jesus" plates and the airbrush ones that adorn many cars.

I'm talking here about the plates that the state charges extra for and that take longer to get than a regular plate, but are just as legal.

I saw one last week that made me look twice. It was on a car that passed me going at least 60 miles an hour on Hwy. 90 in Pass Christian. It read "WIPLSH"—license-plates-for-whiplash.

Would you want to ride in a car whose owner thought it appropriate to put that on the vehicle?

Of course, not all personalized license plates are meant to strike fear into the hearts of other motorists. Some just give the birthdate of the owner, the day he got the car, some nickname for the person or the car, or some other similar message.

Some license plates even are designed to instill hope, such as the one on the car a friend of mine drives. It reads, "I GOD."

I would talk about car signs, but I'm running out of memory space on the file in the computer.

So, until next week, read a few stickers and plates.

SECTION B

THE SEA COAST ECHO—THURSDAY, MARCH 29, 1990-1B

TIME OUT

By Dena Bisnette

Congratulations to Charles Bates Sr. of Pass Christian, who scored a hole-in-one recently at the Broadwater Sea Course. His shot into the No. 10 hole was measured at 160 yards.

Results from the Coast Episcopal Schools second annual 5-K challenge included several local runners among the top three for their divisions.

In the Under-12 division, Sanders Kane of Bay St. Louis was third with a time of 25:08. A familiar name, Herbert Smith of Pass Christian, cropped up in the 45-49 division; he was second with 19:43. Another well-known local winner was Bill Morse of Bay St. Louis, second in the 60-and-Overs with 29:13.

In the women's 35-39 division, Karen Sawyer of Pass Christian won with a time of 23:24 and Elizabeth Benvenutti of Bay St. Louis placed third with 27:51.

The third annual Gulf Coast USM Day/Eagle Club Golf Tournament has been set for April 23 and will be accepting entries until April 16. The tourney will be played Monday, April 23, at Windance Country Club in Gulfport.

The tourney begins with a shotgun start at 1 p.m., followed by a social and awards ceremony at 6 p.m. and a barbecue dinner at 7 p.m.

The entry fee is $50 and checks may be made out to Gulf Coast Eagle Club. This fee includes lunch, green fee, cart, beer and dinner for two. Dinner alone is $15 per couple or $7.50 for a single ticket, in case you don't play but would like to go anyway.

Golfers should send their fees, names, phone numbers and handicaps to Mike Purvis, P.O. Box six, Gulfport, MS 39502.

I talked to Mike at the Hancock County USM Day dinner at Diamondhead this past Friday and the event is open to any golfer, not just members of the Eagle Club.

Among the runners' events coming up next month will be the second annual Friendship Oak Classic, a 5K set for Saturday, April 21. Early registration deadline is April 12.

The race starts at 8:30 a.m. at the University of Southern Mississippi Campus in Long Beach. Race day registration begins at 7 a.m. And, of course, there will also be a one-mile fun run/walk for anyone who isn't ready to try a 5K.

The course is described as scenic, well-marked and flat. After the race, there will be a crawfish meal under the Friendship Oak (in front of Hardy Hall). The meal is $3 per plate for friends and family of run/walk participants.

For registration information, contact USM Gulf Coast at 865-4500.

This week, Cycles Plus Bicycle Club doesn't have a Sunday ride scheduled in order to let club members participate in "Bike Into Spring" a quarter-century and metric century event sponsored by Southern Cyclists in Hattiesburg.

The event begins at 9 a.m. on the north side off the Reed Green Coliseum on the USM campus. By the way, that's the first day of Daylight Savings Time.

For information, call Cycles Plus at 467-1706 or J.R. Owens in Hattiesburg at 584-3354 or 264-9650. And, when you call Cycles Plus, don't forget to ask about the Saturday rides the club is trying to organize.

Bay St. Louis Parks and Playgrounds will accept T-ball and Minor League Registration for children ages five to eight on two Saturdays, April 7 and 14, from 10 a.m. until noon at McDonald Field.

Additional coaches are also needed and anyone interested may contact Frank Perniciaro during registration.

Fees are $10 for Minor League and $5 for T-ball. The season starts May 12. For more information, contact Perniciaro at 467-5626.

Girls' softball tryouts will be conducted Saturday at McDonald Field, beginning at 1 p.m.

All girls ages 13 to 18 must try out in order to play. Bring your glove.

For more information, call 467-1705, 467-8413 or 467-2492.

SSC/OLA tennis sweeps St. John

The combined St. Stanislaus/Our Lady Academy tennis team joined forces Tuesday to take a match 5-zip from the St. John Eagles at the Bayou Bluff Tennis Club. The win gives the team a 4-3 record for the season.

Rallying from a 4-1 deficit, the boys' doubles team of Chris Delgado and Anthony Spearance overcame St. John's Jake Voelkel and Chris Seidensticker 7-5, 7-5, by playing steady, high-percentage tennis.

"We played extremely well in all events," noted head tennis coach Myron Labat. "Kristy Heitzmann and Myron Labat both outsteaded their opponents in boys' and girls' singles, and the brother-sister team of Mike and Cathy Cromwell won their first-ever high school match together."

In boys' singles, Labat bested Mark Dominguez 6-1, 6-1, and in girls' singles, Heitzmann overcame Leslie Van Pelt, 6-4, 6-3.

The Cromwell doubles team defeated Shae Sullivan and Kim Blakesley 6-3, 6-4.

In girls' doubles, Shannon Maggio and Jenny Keel went three sets 5-7, 6-4, 6-3, to defeat Sissy Kalil and Alexa Zupko.

In "B" team action, Mark Ditefano defeated Sammy Daurio 8-0 in boys' singles, and Erin Mooney won 8-6 over Wendy Cameron in girls' singles.

In boys' doubles, Mark

Schutt and Roberto Jimenez downed Will Plat and Drew Sullivan 8-3.

Next up, the SSC/OLA team will meet the Bay High Tigers at St. Stanislaus this afternoon.

Raiders drop first match

Coast Episcopal High School lost its first tennis match of the season to Columbia Academy 5-4 last Friday on the courts at Diamondhead.

For CEHS No. 1 girls' singles, Megan Uram defeated Shannon Fortenberry 6-1, 4-6, 7-5 and No. 2 singles Blair Shellnut defeated Stephanie Stringer 6-2, 6-1.

The girls' No. 1 doubles for CEHS, Whitney Eastman and Ellen McRaney, lost to Christine Fox and Kate Rogers 6-3, 6-1. No. 2 girls' doubles Leanne Stafford and Brooke Shultz defeated Mitzi Fortenberry and Marie Stringer 6-4, 4-6, 7-6 (10-8).

The CEHS mixed doubles team of Nathan Guice and Elizabeth Walker defeated Paige McKenzie and Dan McGhee 6-1, 6-2.

In boys' play for CEHS No. 1 singles, Paul Bernadas lost to Michael Haddox 0-6, 1-6, and No. 2 singles Damion Lawyer lost to Greg Tatum 3-6, 0-6.

For CEHS Linn Montjoy and Scott Hourin, No. 1 boys' doubles, lost to Corey Singley and Rick Hackey 6-3, 6-2. The No. 2 doubles Scott Covode and Randy Hartwell lost 7-6 (7-4), 6-2.

The Coast Episcopal High School tennis team is coached by Lambert Boyd and assisted by Tennis World Pro Magnus Ecklund.

On April 2, CEHS travels to Columbia for a rematch.

Their next home match is April 4 against Bowling Green from Franklinton, La. at Diamondhead.

Local juniors excel at Diamondhead

Kellie Murray, Kristy Heitzmann, Myron Labat Jr. and Michael Cromwell were finalists in their respective age divisions in the Diamondhead Junior Tennis Tournament held on March 24 and 25.

Cromwell, however, was the lone winner of a championship match this weekend, winning a 6-2, 6-2 decision over Kyle Davidson of Pascagoula.

Murray, Heitzmann and Labat all lost to worthy opponents in their respective championship matches.

In addition to the finalists mentioned, local competitors who also displayed their skills included Chris Delgado, Anthony Sperance, Rodney Bourn and Julie Heitzmann, playing in her first sanctioned tournament.

The majority of the players mentioned will again compete in the Ocean Springs Junior Tournament on April 7 and 8.

Tigers steal close one, defeat St. Stanislaus 8-7

In a close game Tuesday, Bay High beat the St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chaws 8-7.

Calvin Thigpen was credited with driving in the run that clinched the contest for the Tigers.

In the top of the first inning, the Rock-A-Chaws led off with a single and two fielders' choices by Adam Breerwood and Cedric Smith, scoring one run.

Thigpen led off with a single, stealing second and advancing to third on a wild pitch. He was driven home on a fly ball by David Weems.

St. Stanislaus rallied in the top of the second, chalking up four points on three walks, a single and a double by Breerwood.

The Tigers could not score against the Rocks in the bottom of the inning.

In the top of the third, the Rocks were unable to produce any runs on their two singles and a walk. Kendall Daniels was able to load the bases with a single, but the next batter grounded out to shortstop.

In the bottom of the third, Bay High picked up two runs on an error from left field and a base on balls issued to Scott Barnes. The next batter up, Charlie Mitchell, hit a double to right center.

In the top of the fourth, Greg Schute of St. Stanislaus led off with a single. The Rocks picked up one run on the hit.

The Tigers tried to rally in the bottom of the inning with a single by Barnes, but the batter was picked off while trying to steal second base.

In the top of the fifth, the Rocks went three up, three down to Weems, who came in to relieve Will Seymour on the mound for the Tigers.

When the Tigers went to the plate, Weems led with a double to right center, the next batter grounded out to the shortstop, and Chris Barlow drove Weems to third. Scott Rogers, the next batter, was hit by a wild pitch, loading the bases.

Thomas Brink hit a single to score two runs for the Tigers.

The top of the sixth was scoreless, but the Tigers took over in the bottom, driving in two runs. The Rocks tied the score at 7-7 in the seventh inning, adding their points on a lead-off single by Kevin Jacobi, a single by Micky Quinlan and an error from third.

Rogers led off with a walk in the bottom of the inning, with Brink hitting a fly ball to right field to advance Rogers to second. Chris Heaps advanced him

Weems named UNA Player of the Week

University of North Alabama juniors Mike Weems of Bay St. Louis, and Joe Martinez of Stockton, Calif., were named Gulf South Conference Player of the Week and Pitcher of the Week respectively, by the league office in Birmingham.

The Gulf South Conference is a nine-member NCAA Division II league that is comprised of schools in Alabama, Mississippi, Georgia and Tennessee.

Weems, a catcher at UNA after transferring from Pearl River Junior College, went 9-for-12 at the plate with four doubles and a home run, five runs batted in and three bases on balls as UNA swept all six of its games last week.

He also threw out a pair of runners in UNA's GSC sweep of Tennessee-Martin.

Weems is currently hitting at a .431 pace, leads the team with nine doubles and has driven in 17 runs.

Martinez, who transferred from Delta (Calif.) Junior College, came in to earn a school record-tying fourth save in an 8-5 win over Division I Centenary, then fired a two-hit shutout in his first start against Tennessee-Martin in a 5-0 win. In seven innings of work he allowed two hits, four walks and struck out five.

North Alabama is 16-3 overall with a nine-game winning streak and leads the GSC Western Division with a 5-1 league mark. The Lions are the defending GSC champions and will be looking to make their fifth NCAA playoff appearance in the last seven years.

Fundraiser aids wildlife management programs at army ammunition plant

Mississippi Army Ammunition Plant's wildlife fund recently received $545 from local sportsmen.

Dan Henson, of On-Target Archery, and Alan Guess, both of North Biloxi, sponsored a fund-raising effort to assist the wildlife management program at the Mississippi Army Ammunition Plant.

The $300 and $245 in contributions from other area sportsmen will be used to plant wildlife food plots. The plantings made possible by these donations will benefit game and non-game animals alike.

These contributions, along with the regular permit fee charged by the Army for hunting at MSAAP, are helping to improve and maintain the wildlife management program at the Mississippi Army Ammunition Plant.

Jaycees sponsor Saints, coaches game

BY DENA BISNETTE
The Bay-Waveland Jaycees are sponsoring a fundraising basketball game which will feature New Orleans Saints players against Gulf Coast coaches. The event will be at 7 p.m. April 5 at Bay High's gymnasium. Tickets are $3.50 at the door but advance tickets are available at $3 each.

For more information or to obtain advance tickets, call Frank Perniciaro at 467-5626 or Mike Favre at 467-9776. An autograph session with the Saints players will be included in the price of admission.

Funds raised by the event will be used to help finance various projects conducted by the Jaycees, a non-profit organization.

Saints players headline Special Olympics golf tournament at Millbrook

The Millbrook Golf and Country Club in Picayune will host the 8th annual Special Olympics Celebrity Golf Tournament on April 7.

Featured celebrities include the New Orleans Saints, coaches, other NFL players, television sportscasters and Mississippi state officials. The Saints expect a large turnout from their organization.

Other well known personalities include U.S. Representative Gene Taylor, Mississippi House Speaker Tim Ford, and Ole Miss personalities Johnny Vaught, Eddy Crawford, Warren Alford, Crowell Armstrong, Richard Price and Doug Elmore.

Special events start at 10:30 a.m. with a noon tee time. Entry fee is $50 and includes green fees, golf carts, and a post-tournament barbeque for contestants.

Robert Lewis Motors Inc. of Picayune is providing a new General Motors vehicle for the first hole in one on the 17th hole, as well as trophies for the winners. Participation is limited, so interested golfers are advised to reserve their spots early.

Millbrook members have donated their facilities for the eighth time this year, and their co-host, the Picayune Kiwanis Club, have made this premier event in the area.

Proceeds from the tournament are donated to the Mississippi Special Olympics to support its Area III activities.

Entry fees and handicaps should be mailed by April 1 to Millbrook Golf and Country Club, P.O. Box 160, Picayune, MS 39466.

To All Mississippians Reading This Ad We Ask One Question. Why?

There has to be an explanation.
76.5% of Mississippi's adults regularly read their local, community newspaper.

What could we all be looking for?
In a nutshell, we're seeking information of a thousand different types.

We're searching for the facts, figures, details, people, places.
And prices.

It should come as no surprise that people read the newspaper for the latest prices.

And they trust and rely on it as the best source for the most current price information.

When people turn to their paper, they turn there with interest. Which means that's where your advertising message needs to be.

With all the choices available, it's difficult deciding how best to advertise your business.

But everything becomes a little simpler when you remember one rule.

YOU
IN THE PAPER.

Cancer Society donates book

"I Want to Grow Up, I Want to Grow Hair, I Want to go to Boise: Children Surviving Cancer," Erma Bombeck's latest book, is now available through the Hancock County Library System, according to Prima Wusnack, system director.

The editions provided to the local library system were prepared for the American Cancer Society, which has donated 300 copies to the Mississippi Library Commission for distribution in libraries statewide.

The book deals with the psychological aspects of tumors in children, some anecdotes and a great deal of the humor which has been the trademark of Bombeck.

The money generated by the event will be used to furnish scholarships and teacher grants, Wilson said.
